Southern Cross Safe at Suva

Next on Program Is the Shorter Hop of 1,700 Miles to Brisbane, Which Will Complete the Journey to Australia.

Suva, Fiji Islands, June 6 (AP).—(Wednesday)—Having successfully traversed approximately 5,535 miles of ocean between Oakland, Cal., Hawaii and Suva, the fliers of the Monoplane Southern Cross had a busy program before them today in preparation for their 1,700-mile hop to Brisbane, en route to Sydney, Australia.

There were many things to be done, checking of the gasoline supply remaining in the fuel tanks of the Southern Cross; locating of a site from which the refueled plane can take off safely for its flight toward Australia; examination of the three motors that labored faithfully through miles and storms, and to study weather charts and maps to decide the time and course of the shortest but perhaps the most hazardous leg of the unprecedented flight.

One of the most important problems before the fliers was to select a take-off point. Albert Park, where the Southern Cross landed yesterday afternoon, was barely large enough to accommodate the plane in its arrival. Unweighted by a large store of gasoline, the pilots missed running into the side of the inclosure by only twenty yards and then only by making a sharp left turn up onto a rise in the ground.

Taking off with 900 gallons of gasoline and oil, the amount estimated as needed for the flight to Australia, will require a straight, lengthy runway heading into the wind. Kingsford-Smith intimated that he intended looking over a stretch of beach near the city, a sandy, level bit of ground that might accommodate the plane during low tide.

GALES BUFFET FRIENDSHIP; DELAY TRANSATLANTIC START

Trepassey, N. F., June 5 (AP).—The Fokker Monoplane Friendship in which Miss Amelia Earhart of Boston and her two male companions hope to cross the Atlantic was buffeted by strong northwest winds here today which made plans for completion of fueling impossible.

Seven more tanks of gasoline remained to be poured into the plane's reservoirs. The fliers announced the take-off, which last night seemed likely upon completion of the fueling operation, had been postponed. Aside from the wind the weather was clear and fine.

Although Miss Boll announced she would jump off today indications at the field were that this would not be possible for some time.

GIRL SUFFERS LOSS OF MEMORY, SEEKS AID.

A girl apparently 20 years of age and suffering from an evident loss of memory and cold applied at the home of N. H. Breckenbridge of Middle Hope, near Newburgh, Monday morning about 6:30 o'clock. She could not tell her name or where her home was. When authorities took her to Newburgh she showed slight familiarity with places and streets, which led to the conclusion that her home might be in this place.

There was no evidence of violence in the appearance of the girl, her clothing being in good shape and she was not suffering bruises of any kind so far as could be learned. She is tall and slender of build with dark brown bobbed hair. She wore a scarlet blouse, gray knickers, leather puttees, tan walking shoes, small velvet jacket and small light tan cap.

BARGE CAPTAIN KILLED WHEN CRUSHED BETWEEN BARGES

Edward Davies, 50, captain of a barge, was killed Saturday afternoon just off Milton. He was crushed between two barges when they rocked in the swell caused by the steamer DeWitt Clinton, according to testimony given before Coroner Suiter of Marlborough, who conducted an inquest.

Davies was painting the stern of his barge, the M. J. MacDonald, and was on a scaffold between the stern of the barge and the bow of the barge ahead. Evidently he did not realize his danger from the steamer's swells until too late. He was unconscious when taken from the scaffold and was dead when the barge arrived at Milton. The barge captain was a native of Hudson, but had lived most of his life at Weehawken.

New Bridge at DeWitt's Mills

Dangerous Curve in Narrow Road to be Straightened and Bridge to be 50 Feet in Width—Will Add Greatly to Safety of Travel on Rosendale Road.

A great change will occur at DeWitt's Mills, on the Rosendale road four miles from Kingston, very soon when a new bridge will be built crossing the Greenkill from the Pitney property, known as the old DeWitt homestead. The state search shows the title of the property with a line of descent as follows:

1. Tjerck Claessen DeWitt
2. Andries DeWitt, whose grave is in the yard of the First Reformed Church, marked by a cedar post bearing the date, 1719. Tradition says the post dates back to that year.
3. Johannes DeWitt
4. Col. Charles DeWitt, lawyer, merchant, inn keeper, mill owner, member of the colonial legislature of the New York legislature, council of safety and congress, whose grave at Hurley was marked a few years ago by a suitable monument.
5. Gerritt DeWitt.
6. Richard T. DeWitt
7. Charles R. DeWitt
8. The children of Charles R. DeWitt.

In 1928 all the title was deeded by the DeWitt heirs to Hall and Burnett, the present owners with whom the state has made negotiations for a right of way. The new bridge will be one of the greatest improvements and will relieve great danger to the public at that point. The very dangerous curve and narrow bridge have caused several accidents.

The bridge is to be 50 feet wide, the new road leaving the main road just north of the DeWitt Inn, the present Pitney property, which consists of 12 acres of land on the northwest corner. The Eddyville-Whiteport-Hurley road crosses the state road, the Whiteport station being located near DeWitt Lake and three Binnewater lakes, where the 14th Street Bank of New York city has a very large camp. With the Greenkill Park boarding houses, traffic at this corner is very heavy.

There was no confirmation of this from any other source. The correspondents said news of Chang's death was being kept secret.

A Japanese war office dispatch, however, confirmed the death of Wu Chang-Sheng, military governor of Heilungkiang. Wu had risen from the ranks to become virtually the acting governor of Manchuria.

Mo Teh-Hui, Chang's minister of agriculture, and Yu Kuo-Han, one of Chang's advisers, were in a serious condition today. Premier Pan Fu was reported to be suffering from shock.

Both Chinese and Japanese authorities at Mukden were investigating the outrage. Press dispatches said demonstrations of anti-Japanese feeling among the Chinese had calmed down when it was established that the Japanese had no connection with the bombing.

Japanese official quarters appeared confident today there would be no serious disturbances necessitating the sending of additional Japanese troops. Five thousand soldiers are in Mukden at present and it was thought this force would be sufficient to deal with any emergency.

Benedictine Campaign Ends, $175,220 Pledged

City and County Unite In Common Cause and Again Go Over the Top In Worthy Project—Hospital Now Able to Conduct Its Work Without Heavy Encumbrance—Sought $160,000 to Become Free of Debt—Workers Enthusiastic.

The appeal for the Benedictine Hospital, which for the past ten days has swept through Ulster county like a prairie fire, was very successfully terminated Monday evening, when at the Victory meeting held in the New York state armory the grand total of pledges was announced as $175,220. The success of this campaign has been forecast ever since the opening night due to the army of workers who had signified their intentions of working the necessary solicitations. Probably the finest organization ever assembled in Ulster had the work in charge and the results were very gratifying.

The victory means that the Sisters in charge of the Benedictine Hospital are now free to conduct the hospital without the very heavy monetary encumbrance of $160,000 hovering over their work. The victory also proves that the city of Kingston and the communities throughout Ulster county when welded together for a worthy and common cause will go over the top as they have in the past. The victory also is a tribute to the great leadership of the Hon. Philip Elting.

Real Victory Meeting.

It was a real victory meeting that was called to order by Chairman Elting, there being present over eight hundred. The workers were seated at the tables on the floor of the big drill shed and the many well wishers were seated in the balcony. There were four distinguished guests present and they were given a place of honor on the stage. The distinguished guests were Sister Berenice, superintendent of the Benedictine; Sister Raphael and Sister Callista, nurses at the Benedictine, and Sister Gertrude, special representative of the Mother Superior of the Order of St. Benedict.

Chairman Elting Thanks Workers.

The Rev. Dr. Frank B. Seeley opened the meeting with the invocation and Chairman Elting gave a brief talk in which he told of the history of the drive and the hearty cooperation he has received. He personally thanked each one for the help given and said that they would not be sorry for the effort they put in the campaign.

Downtown Division Reports.

Calling for the reports first of the city, he handed the gavel over to Harry E. Schirick for the downtown division. Judge Schirick paid a great tribute to Mr. Elting as a real leader.

The downtown teams started off in great style and when Father Kennedy's team was called the applause began to reach deafening proportions. When the air was cleared for a few seconds it was discovered that Father Kennedy's outfit had collected $8,449.76 for the final meeting. This amount brought the total for the team up to $18,804 for the campaign. The total reported at the final meeting for the downtown teams was over $15,000.

Eckert's Tribute to Benedictine Sisters.

John W. Eckert took the gavel for the uptown teams and his bet with Judge Schirick that uptown would win made the competition between these sections more interesting. Before calling for the reports, Mr. Eckert paid a glowing tribute to the honored guests, the Sisters, whom he described as noble women who have given their lives for what is worthy and what is righteous. He also told of the victory that would soon be reached and told of the victories that the city of Kingston and Ulster county had won back in the dark ages, mentioning the rebuilding of the homes here following the destruction by the British soldiers and in recent years the rebuilding of the City of Kingston Hospital, which was destroyed by fire.

Uptown Division Reports.

Mr. Eckert's uptown teams did not go so well at first until [illegible] O'Meara reported $8,112 [illegible] subscriptions. The final report of A. A. Davis made things look [illegible] when he reported $5,[illegible] for the uptown Division for Monday was $10,562.

With the city's report in, the total of $150,000 was not yet reached but Mr. Elting, who said he would take care of the county himself, assured all present that the county would do the work.

Mr. Elting took great delight in calling for the districts in the county and so did the large gathering afterward, for they responded very creditably. As the chairmen called for additional subscriptions for the communities, record was being kept. With maximum amount still to be reached the chairman called for West Hurley. West Hurley's amount did the trick, putting the total over the $160,000. "It took good old West Hurley to do the trick," said Mr. Elting. After the great cheer echoed throughout the big drill shed a broad smile appeared on the face of the leader, who said the $5 subscription received for the campaign came from West Hurley. It was a check for $10.

Total of County Pledges.

The total pledges handed in at the final meeting from the county was $17,071, making a grand total of subscriptions for the county districts of $23,219.75, exclusive of preliminary gifts and other county pledges which were reported through teams of city organizations.

New York Committee.

In addition to the city and county reports, Chairman Elting also reported that the New York committee assured him that they would subscribe $5,000. The telegram from the New York committee read as follows:

"New York committee assures $5,000 extra. Impossible to give you names at this time by wire. Will forward later. Hope drive goes over top."

It was signed by Cornelius J. Curtin and John M. Cashin.

Tribute to Workers' Organization.

Following the announcement of the grand total of over $175,000, Mr. Elting paid tribute to the loyal work of his organization, naming many of the leaders, including Father Scully, who had worked faithfully with him during the entire campaign.

Sisters Express Their Gratitude.

Sister Berenice, Superintendent of the Benedictine, was then called upon. In earnest words of gratitude Sister Berenice brought a message to the general chairman and the workers expressing the appreciation of the institution for the great interest shown throughout Ulster county. Sister Gertrude brought a message from the Mother Superior, thanking all those who took part in the glorious victory.

Campaign Manager Gives Thanks.

Harvey J. Hill, manager of the campaign, acknowledged the organization's indebtedness to the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. for the use of building during the campaign. He also thanked General Secretary Porter, Physical Director "Pop" Hinds and Boys' Secretary Hall for the work in the campaign. He also thanked Louis S. Coe, J. David Schenck, Parochial School children, Spencer's School students, Moran School students, Boy Scouts, Benedictine Ladies' Auxiliary and Ernest LeFevre and James J. O'Connor, who had labored during the early morning hours adding the amounts handed in each evening by the teams.

Ashokan Pastor Bestows Praise.

The Rev. Thomas S. Braithwaite of Ashokan was called upon and in a few remarks told of his pleasure in being present at the wonderful occasion. He also praised the leader and paid a great tribute to the sisters.

Father Scully's Heartfelt Talk.

Mr. Elting said that the last words should be uttered by Father Scully who had made great sacrifices during the campaign. Father Scully said the success of the drive was a tangible expression of the esteem in which the Benedictine was held throughout the county. He also said that great good would be derived from the appeal, welding together people for a common and worthy cause and casting aside any suspicions of intolerance. He had words of the highest praise for Mr. Elting, whose example of love and devotion to a worthy cause he said was exemplified by Our Loving Master during his stay on this earth. The leadership he said was an act of God and the campaign would never have been the success it was without the leadership of Philip Elting.

Bandit Considerate of His Home Town

San Miguel Allende, State of Guanajuato, Mexico.—Candido Sanchez is considerate of his home town. Candido grew up here. He was a bright, ambitious boy. He went out into the big world and made his mark as a successful bandit. He became the leader of a small but efficient gang. Sometimes he sent money home to his poor old parents.

Recently, at the head of his armed men, Candido galloped down the familiar streets of his old home. Doors were hurriedly closed and barred and shutters lowered. People cowered within their houses and stores, thinking the looting usual upon such occasions was to occur. They considered it not very nice of Candido to treat his town that way. Candido didn't. He told his former neighbors to have no fear. He said he had only returned to adjust a minor personal matter with a man named Martinez.

Candido found the man named Martinez, shot him three times and rode away with his followers without damaging the town at all. The people were quite pleased and grateful.

Martinez was embalmed and buried. It seems he and Candido had a little difference of opinion a long time ago before Candido went away and became a big man. Nobody could remember what the argument had been about.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

New York—What this country needs, in the opinion of John Erskine, author, musician and teacher, is more good music teachers in the high schools and fewer cheer leaders to lead the singing of silly songs.

Philadelphia—Leslie Taylor, 29 year old Englishman, will have time in the hoosegow to consider whether his opinion as to American justice is correct. He wrote in a diary that punishment in the United States is light. Sentencing him for the theft of an automobile, Judge Gordon said: "I am going to send you to jail to show you American justice in stern, and after serving time there you will be deported."

New York—There's such a thing as being altogether too sarcastic about unsatisfactory new shoes. A furniture merchant put his in his show window with placards telling what he thought about them. The shoe dealer obtained an injunction.

Chicago—Happy when pinched, happy when hitched. John Walter McCann, wealthy San Francisco youth, was married in Judge Borelli's police court to Miss Marion M. Balerio. The judge once was so nice about speeding that McCann wished to appear before him again.

New York—Anna Held, Jr., has a new role—bride. Joseph D. Martensen, bond broker, and Liane Carrera, daughter of the late Anna Held, obtained a license to marry.

Kiel—The Imperial Yacht Club, which had its heyday when Wilhelm Hohenzollern was Kaiser, refuses to change its name. Therefore the government has ordered all army and navy members to resign.

New York—Father Knickerbocker is to pay Clarence Chamberlin $1,000 a month to show him how to build an airport.

Utrecht, Holland—A spinster here has eight pet cats which have three meals a day with her. She kisses them all good night. A maid, ordered to do the same, threw up her job, and the mistress had her in court for quitting without notice. The maid won.

Hasselt, Belgium—The district agricultural chamber hereafter will let June bugs bite rather than revive an extinction scheme that worked too well. Children were offered three cents for each dozen bugs. In two days the delivery was 255,000. Then the reward was withdrawn.

Her Dreadful Past

Convicted, an outcast, marked for life with the brand of patricide.

The amazing true story of a girl patricide —

PERHAPS you recall reading in the newspapers the case of Gretchen. It was the piteous, sordid story of a girl who poisoned her father—and then, at her trial, steadfastly refused to utter a word in her own defense, preferring punishment rather than describe the terrible details of the soul-destroying life he had forced upon her.

You read of her conviction and incarceration. There, apparently, the story ended. But really it was only the beginning of one of the most amazing human dramas ever enacted.

In prison Gretchen performed her duties in utter silence; nothing amused or interested her; she kept completely to herself—an outcast branded a patricide for life.

Then Mary Howard came to the prison to teach. Her heart went out to the little soul-frozen daughter of the slums. She was kind to her, encouraged her, tried to make her feel that she was not a pariah but a girl like other girls.

At first Gretchen feared and distrusted her; but later, with her head in the kindly teacher's lap, her body wracked with sobs, she told for the first time the dreadful story which, had she told it to the jury, would probably have resulted in her acquittal.

The complete story of the events leading up to her dreadful crime, her trial, imprisonment, eventual parole and the glorious success she is now making of her life, appears in July True Story Magazine—now on sale. The title is "Out of the Slums." Don't miss it.

PASTOR AND HIS WIFE MISTOOK WEDDING DATE

Mistakes will happen even to careful people and a case in point happened to the Rev. Putnam Cady, pastor of the Elmendorf Street Presbyterian Church, this morning. He and Mrs. Cady had received an invitation to attend the wedding of Miss Kathryn A. Diamond to Eugene B. Carey and went to St. Joseph's Church this morning to attend the ceremony. They went early and getting in a pew patiently awaited the coming of the bridal party. Other people came and the domine and wife thought they also had come to attend the wedding. To their surprise the body of a parishioner who had died was brought into the church, and they learned that it was that of Edward P. O'Rourke for whom a solemn Mass of requiem was to be offered. They stayed until the services were over. As the wedding is to take place on Wednesday, June 6, it dawned upon them that they had come to the church a day too soon, having mistaken the date as of June 5, today.

Resting the Brain

Sleep is the resting time of the brain. The brain cannot be active all the time any more than any other organ. When the brain is active, the result is consciousness; when the brain is at rest, the result is unconsciousness. We really do not understand how this interdependence comes about; in the present state of our knowledge we have to take it as an ultimate fact of life. The brain seems to require to rest about eight hours out of the twenty-four. All organs work and rest alternately, though the times of their rest are all much shorter than the time of the resting of the brain. The heart, for instance, rests only about four-tenths of a second each second.—Dr. D. F. Fraser-Harris in the Forum.

Eagle Claws as Money

Currency takes some queer shapes in N. W. Queensland, Australia. Promissory notes in amounts from $1 to $5 are issued by several business firms, and remain in circulation for one year, being accepted unquestioningly throughout the district. Other substitutes for coin are eagle claws at $1 the pair and wild dog scalps at $5 apiece. The Sydney Bulletin recently told of a farmer who wanted "change" for a $5 note and accepted two wild dog scalps, four eagle claws and eight promissory notes bearing four signatures of men he had never even heard of.

Wise Caddie

A golfer, who was not particularly good at the game, made his approach shot. It was a blind hole and was also rather short. The caddie, just visible over the intervening knoll, gesticulated wildly for a moment. "What is it?" said the player, coming up to the green. "You've holed out," said the caddie. "Done it in two!" Sure enough the ball was down. The player gave the caddie half a dollar. The next day every man who went out with that caddie did the same hole in two!

Modern Art Plays Part in Fashions

Squares, Cubes, Diagonals Prominent in Apparel for Women.

Modern art has entered the field of fashion. In keeping with the new ideas of the and color in architecture and decoration have appeared some of the most important dress styles of the season. These, observes a fashion writer in the New York Times, stand out distinctly because of the feminine type of dress that has come to be the accepted mode.

Women in general have responded to the gentler tone in styles, but along with them have come gowns that reflect the new environment. The frilly things seen both in France and in America are inharmonious with the severity of the modernistic aspect of many apartment interiors and the designers are hastening to turn out new creations that will be more suitable.

Women who prefer the soft prettiness of rippling flounces, cascades and gracefully draped materials may have all of these, but the modernist, too, finds her taste met in frocks, wraps and all of the other items of costume turned out in squares, cubes and diagonals.

Distinctive models in the modern manner have arrived from Paris, where in the Exposition les Arts Decoratif were shown all phases of modernistic art. Progress has been made since that introduction of the idea, and the modernistic design in dress has been adapted to conventional taste.

Deep Points and Angles.

French couturiers meet the demand for this novelty with some delightful creations in different types of dress. Philippe et Gaston, who are considered to be among the most conservative of Parisian couturiers, are out boldly with some designs that are extreme in their geometric appearance, but yet discreetly and pleasingly symmetrical in form.

In three different types of dress deep points and angles are used subtly to satisfy the modern demand for slendering lines. Beginning at the top of one gown a deep V is outlined, with the point touching the bustline. Its angle is repeated in another sharp one which crosses the belt and extends down to the hips, where the skirt by skillful fitting makes a graceful connection.

In one unusually attractive model three shades of gray crepe are used. The palest shade, an almost oyster white, is used in the yoke and meets the next deeper shade over the bust. The lighter is introduced again to outline the girdle space, and the darkest, an almost gunmetal gray, is used for the skirt. This is joined, as are the sections of the bodice, with a piping of the goods, and fits closely about the hips, with a swinging flare at the bottom. Gowns of this description are also to be seen in monotones of such shades as parchment, dust, nude, gray or beige. They are refined and altogether charming.

More striking is a gown of sharply pointed sections in black and white joined alternately. In this one material only, a soft lustrous crepe satin is employed, the white emphasized in the front from collar to hem, and the black—a satin—is arranged in general cascades at each side.

The house of Margaine-Lacroix has designed an afternoon dress in which a dashing geometric pattern is formed by the artistic handling of fabric. In this model, which is of amber crepe satin, the dress itself is made with the lustrous side out. It has a seam at the belt dipping low at one side, from which the satin hangs in a full cluster below the regular hem. On the other side the material is appliqued with the dull face in a pattern of long, sharply pointed angles that touch the neckline and extend to the hem with a large, flat ornament of silk passementerie set with topaz stones at the hip. This passementerie is used to form a deep cuff bound with straps of the satin that reaches almost to the elbow.

Every house of importance is designing clothes on geometric lines. A model from Talbot, which answer the requirement of almost as a departure one notices. It is a sheath frock in which the upper part of the bodice and the long sleeves are made of dull crepe in a pale shade of beige. The section of the dress that covers the hips is made of satin to the line below the hips is made of crepe de chine in the same tone, and marked finely, crosses a band covered in galaxy at the top and bottom. The skirt and deep cuffs are made of the crepe tucked lengthwise.

The Normal Waistline.

More than a suggestion of a return to the normal waistline is seen in some of the latest models of the modernistic type that come from Paris. Among the well-known couturiers

Frock Made in Black Crepe Satin Combined With Rose Crepe.

Yvonne Davidson, who is comparatively radical, presents an informal, untailored frock of cocoa-colored flat crepe in which a belt marks the waistline squarely, joining a simple, slightly bloused bodice to a severely plain skirt. At the lower hipline a panel of fine plaits is inserted. The entire dress is made of one material, untrimmed but for a row of buttons with which the bodice is fastened from top to bottom.

The geometric effect in many designs is achieved by using two sides of one material, alternating, for example, the dull and lustrous surface of satin and satin-finish crepe. This has been done in an American-designed costume in which wide-shaped bands of dull crepe are used in diagonal lines on the upper part of the bodice and of the skirt. Severity is avoided in this model by the addition of a jabot of the material, which begins at the closing of the uneven neckline at one side and is repeated below the hip, which is defined with a large jet ornament.

In another model of blue and white printed crepe the skirt is straight, having an inverted plait in the middle front, and is attached to the long, straight bodice with a double row of fagoting in blue silk that forms a point on each side. Two more rows of the fagoting trim the bodice down to the bustline, and a little turnover collar of blue batiste is finished with a jabot that ripples down to the belt.

Spangled Gowns Passe.

The extreme mode, which is now most fashionable, presents almost unlimited opportunity for the modernistic design in many variants. The all-over beaded and spangled gowns for evening are out of date, the preference being for plain materials, with crystal, jet and delicately colored beads appliqued in sharply drawn designs.

In an ultra-smart evening gown of black crepe chiffon Paul Caret appliques narrow bands of rhinestones in diagonal rows. The top line starts at the point of the left shoulder and drops across the bodice to the right hip. This is followed at regular spaces by four rows more of the same trimming. The decollete neck is cut in a deep point in front and at the back, and the skirt is dropped low, with two separate points below the left knee.

A test of skill arrives when the modiste creates a costume in the modern manner, all of one material, without trimming, yet conspicuously smart. This Jean Patou has done in a crepe of a sheer and particularly supple quality. Sharp diagonal lines made with fine tucks radiate from one shoulder to the belt and form a girdle that is drawn about the figure and ends in a low dipping scarf drapery.

In keeping up with the prevailing vogue for bringing accessories into ensemble effects with costumes, one of the leading designers of women's and misses' dresses is featuring some new summer frocks in flat silk crepe with hats to match. The hats come in sport shapes, turbans and berets. Their crowns are gored and fitted to meet the various head-size requirements. The dresses are in both one and two-piece styles. Trimmings consist of fagoting, monograms, buckles at the waistline, odd seaming and color contrasts in collars, cuffs and pockets. For those who prefer the rough silks, there are a few made up in shantung and pongee silk.

Seeing Birds' Eyes

In Spain the authorities had to take steps to stop the practice of putting out the eyes of birds. The verderon, a kind of finch, is so timid it will not sing in the presence of strangers. When blinded it is not so temperamental.

"The Lord's Supper"

St. Paul's account is the earliest record of the institution of the Lord's Supper by at least two or three years. John D. Davis says in "A Dictionary of the Bible": "It was written probably as early as A. D. 57, just 27 years after the supper was instituted."

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 5, 1928.

Collectors are curious creatures. One of them has just paid $1,100 for a "perfectly commonplace" letter written by the late President Harding, although the letters of Washington and other really great Americans merely because more of them are obtainable can be had for relatively small sums.

For 1927 the Travelers Insurance Company of Hartford reports 73 of its policy holders as having sustained injuries in getting in or out of bed, while the soap slicked bathtub, the supposed chief household danger, injured only 64. Formerly the bed was regarded as man's safest refuge, but possibly new peril has been brought into the house by the craze for antique furniture, including old-time beds requiring a climb of several feet.

Elinor Glyn will be delighted to learn that one of her sex has written to Republican State Chairman Morris of New York: "It will take a good man to keep the women of New York state from voting for Al Smith, for he has 'It'." Commenting the New York Times says: "Now that a convenient title for an important personal quality has been manufactured we may hear of discussions of 'It' both in Kansas City and Houston." But Elinor Glyn's chances of being gratified to that extent are slim. Neither convention will want to make itself ridiculous.

GOLD IN THE SEA.

Some Germans had hope of paying their country's war reparations bill with gold extracted from sea water. Now that hope is dashed by Prof. Fritz Haber, a high chemical authority. He tells the Oceanic Congress in Berlin that there is no chance of extracting enough to make it worth while.

There is plenty of gold in the sea. The Swedish chemist, Arrhenius, estimated that all the oceans together contained 8,000,000 tons of the metal. There are 30 known ways of extracting it. But the amount of gold contained in any given quantity of water capable of being handled by chemical processes is so slight that it wouldn't pay.

That is just as well. If the sea were a practicable gold mine, everybody would start mining it. If Germany could take out of it enough gold to pay her debts, other nations would start doing likewise and produce so much gold as to destroy its debt-paying value.

LESS EFFICIENCY, PLEASE!

An American in London suggests one reason why the transatlantic telephone service isn't used more by the general run of tourists. It is too efficient. There is no thrill. All you have to do in England or France is pick up the receiver, say "American service," and the rest is just like a toll call back home. It even seems easier than some toll calls at home. It just doesn't seem possible that anything so simple is worth $45 for three minutes.

Here is a hint to the telephone companies involved. Business men or other persons with genuinely important messages to get through will gladly pay the toll and make the calls and be thankful for the efficiency. For the rest of the public, that has to get a kick out of any such expenditure, can't the company invent a more picturesque rigmarole to be gone through with before a call may be completed? This would make it fun, and receipts from such calls would undoubtedly jump to remarkable heights.

MAKING CULTURE "HUM."

Some years ago a supposedly jocular, and possibly quite serious, American captain of industry was alleged to have remarked that when Americans "got the time" they would "make culture hum." This is brought to mind by some parts of the showing at the national convention of American librarians. It would appear that literary culture is no longer confined to university professors, writers of serious works, professional men, and the relatively small class of wide readers who have had educational advantages. We learn that now "it is not surprising to see a ditch-digger carrying a copy of Euripides," that "elevator operatives read William James," and that "stenographers, actors, bus conductors" can be seen lovingly handling solid tomes of the highest grade.

All this is no joke, for the librarians support their assertions with statistical records. In very many communities they have been carefully taking note of "who reads what" with surprising results. For example, a representative of the St. Louis public library reported that his lists of the readers of William James, and of Homer, Aeschylus, Sophocles and Euripides in translation included no lawyers and very few doctors and ministers, but that the readers of the Greek classics named included "a vaudeville musician and a butcher," and that the readers of William James included "a machinist, a common laborer, a colored salesman, a laundry worker and many others of humble occupation." Surely here is testimony that our era of making culture "hum" has actually arrived.

TREATMENT OF PIMPLES.

When I was a youngster and saw anyone with pimples and blackheads on the face I thought it was due to a lack of cleanliness on the part of the individual. In this I was mistaken.

The fact that pimples come in the early teens and stay until the late twenties is pretty good evidence that there is some fault in the building up and tearing down processes in some individuals at this time.

These pimples often affect the whole manner of life, causing sufferers to avoid companions and to keep to themselves almost completely. The pimples and blackheads, acne vulgaris is name given by skin specialists, are due to some processes in body changing the oil of the skin to become waxlike and it doesn't pour out upon the skin properly. It gets dammed back and tries by pressure to come through the small openings. This wax like or cheesy mass catches dust or dirt and you have blackheads.

The process developes further and a pimple is formed. Then the pimple gets infected and there is pus formation.

Now there is a history of constipation in ninety percent of the cases, and that point should be the first consideration. The part of the waste matter lying in large intestine can become a part of the contents of the blood and this affect all parts and processes including the skin.

The treatment should always include the proper diet particularly avoiding pastry, fresh white bread, raw fruits, tomatoes, pork, veal, hard boiled eggs, oatmeal, candy, fried foods, very hot or very cold drinks.

Dr. J. Lewis Webb of Chicago, tells us that if patients will persevere with treatment long enough, satisfactory results may be obtained in the majority of cases.

The blackheads and contents of each pimple are expelled by means of the little instruments sold in the drug stores for the purpose, and the part then washed with an antiseptic mercury soap, the soap being left on the face for a few minutes. The patient is then given a course of vaccine injections, about ten or twelve in all.

A course of X-ray treatments then follows to prevent the accumulation of the waxy or cheesy substance in the little glands.

Now this looks like a heavy program but it would seem that anyone unfortunate enough to be afflicted with acne, should be willing to undergo this treatment rather than suffer the embarrassment of such an ailment.

THE HEART THROB

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

POET, what tools to make a verse?
Singer, what bricks to build a ballad?
Philosopher, the rule rehearse
To mix an epigram, or salad.
Well, words must match, that much is true,
An epigram be wise and clever,
A song must have its cadence, too,
Yet none of these will live forever
Each is a fountain on life's way,
And many weary mortals come there.
And each, to live beyond today,
Must have a heart-throb in it somewhere.

I know no other rule than this,
Whether our task be toil or singing.
Life's opportunity we miss
Who only tools to tasks are bringing.
But he who seeks to serve the world,
Who brings to toil some inspiration,
As fair a banner has unfurled
As kings, however low his station.
Whatever deeds are ours to do,
Whether to write a song, or spin it,
Our work must have its purpose, too,
Each task must have a heart-throb in it.

June Rain.

Spat! comes the first drop of rain:
Then a swift rush and rattle
Like stampeding cattle
Sweeping across the plain.

Trees bow before
The wet gust's blowing;
Gutters are overflowing.
Then 'tis suddenly o'er.

The sun marks a path
All wet and gleaming.
Down which June comes beaming
From her fragrant bath.

Magistrate—"You say the officer arrested you while you were quietly minding your own business?"

Prisoner—"Yes, your worship."

"You were quietly attending to your own business, making no noise or disturbance of any kind?"

"None whatever, sir."

"It seems very strange. What is your business?"

"I'm a burglar."

No idea is worth much unless a first-class man is back of it.

She was still rather new at driving a car and a little bit confused in traffic. Down Main street she forgot to stop soon enough at the signal and shot out into the middle of the street.

Pompously the traffic officer bore down upon her.

"Didn't you see me hold up my hand?" he shouted fiercely.

"Didn't you know that when I held up my hand it meant 'Stop'?"

"No, sir; I'm just a school teacher," she said, in a timid, mouse-like voice, "and when you raised your hand like that I thought you wanted to ask a question."

Fortune Teller, to young lady client—"You are soon going on a long trip."

Young Lady—"Will I have to walk back?"

Hadn't you better go and tell your father?" said the motorist to the farmer's boy who stood looking at the load of hay upset in the lane by the collision.

"He knows," replied the boy.

"Knows? How can he know?"

"He's under the hay."

Heckler—And so does the washerwoman.

After Jessie had been to boarding school a few weeks she began signing her name, Jessica. Her fun-loving brother Tom, wrote in reply:

Dear Jessica:—Dadica and Momica went to visit Aunt Lizzica. Uncle Samica is buying a new machinica, but he doesn't know whether to get a Fordica or a Chevica. The old cowica has a calfica and I was going to name it Nellica, but changed it to Jamica because it was a bullica.

Your brother,
Tomica.

Uncle Sam's new paper money is to be smaller—a shorter wheelbase with greater turnover, just when we were hoping for something with greater mileage.

More Truth Than Poetry.

Keeping books is lots of fun, when you're making lots of mon.
But keeping books that show a loss
makes one sicker'n a hoss.

"He made an unusually good after-dinner speech."

"What did he say?"

"He said: 'Waiter, give me the checks.'"

Home runs are again listed among the items for which the demand is greater than the supply.

Pelicans Easily Tamed

Pelicans though generally wary and difficult of approach, become, when assured of safety, quite fearless; and it is a common sight to see them, in the harbors which they frequent, swim up to the ships to be fed. In certain Egyptian villages they even follow customers about in the fish markets and stand expectantly by for food to be given them.

Popular city messenger ends foot tortures

Coolene is securing these remarkable results in cities everywhere. Norman K. Sheetz of Lancaster, Pa., pictured above, another popular messenger, also says: "Coolene is great for burning feet."

"Coolene is great for burning, aching feet," says John Segerson.

JOHN SEGERSON is a messenger for the Postal Telegraph Company in New York City. If there's any job that's hard on the feet, it's his. Recently his feet started to ache, burn and grow callused. It worried him until he tried Coolene—and now his feet feel as young and spry as they did years ago. As he himself says:

"I have been walking the streets of New York as a messenger for quite a number of years, but lately my feet were in a serious way. They began to burn and ache. Almost every step caused pain to shoot through them. I thought I'd have to give up my job. A friend suggested that I try Coolene. I did, and what a wonderful relief it was! Coolene actually seemed to draw the fire and pain right out of my feet. Now, my feet are cool and comfortable. Coolene is great for burning, aching feet."

Coolene soothes and heals sore, aching feet—instantly! It contains rare penetrating oils — and two world-old, soothing unguents — frankincense and myrrh, used by the ancients for centuries.

Get Coolene today. This wonderful healing cream takes all the burning and soreness out of corns, callouses, bunions and blisters. Coolene is ivory-white, greaseless, stainless. Easy to use. Vanishes instantly. Relief guaranteed from burning, aching, tired feet—or its small cost refunded. Sold and recommended by good druggists everywhere, such as:

Cities to Help in Training Police

State Conference of Mayors to Cooperate With Rockefeller Foundation In Promoting Model Police Training System—Other Activities Show Progress.

Troy, N. Y., June 5 (AP).—Samuel A. Carlson, president of the New York State Conference of Mayors and Other Municipal Officials, today announced that the Conference would cooperate with the Rockefeller Foundation in promoting a model police training system in New York state. The announcement was made at the 19th annual meeting of the Conference which opened here today.

In making the announcement President Carlson said:

"We started the plan by calling a conference of police chiefs and experts in Albany, February 16, to consider existing police training facilities in this state and to devise ways and means to strengthen schools now operating and increase their number when, and as, the needs demand.

"It was the consensus of opinion that training of patrolmen of two years or less experience is the pressing need at this time and that police departments of other cities and villages should send their patrolmen of this grade to one of these schools."

Pointing out that the five police schools now in operation in the state and two others to be started this year are strategically located, the speaker continued:

Law Enacted as First Step.

"The conference decided that we should first obtain a law giving to cities and villages power to pay the expenses of policemen while attending a training school, and secondly, work out a plan to strengthen existing schools and improve their training work where necessary. The first assignment has been accomplished. At the last session of the Legislature, the necessary law was enacted.

"It is now particularly gratifying to announce that with the cooperation and support of the Rockefeller Foundation, we shall be able this year to provide the necessary expert advice and assistance to bring about model training facilities in New York state."

President Carlson also advocated a meeting of municipal charity officials next fall to consider the unemployment problem and the proposed revision of the poor law. Other improvements urged in his presidential address were the revision of the general highway law; improvements in the method of collecting delinquent village taxes, and the working out of a solution of city school fiscal problems.

Sums Up Year's Work.

Summing up the year's work of the Mayor's Conference, he concluded:

"We are now closing a year of unusual activity and gratifying progress in municipal work in New York state. Our special activities include the preparation of model ordinances; holding a mid-winter conference on legislative problems; operating the Bureau of Municipal Information; studying municipal legislation; investigating the fiscal problem of city school administration; increasing the home rule powers of cities; preparing uniform regulations for traffic by automatic signals; amending the Conservation Law; conducting a campaign for the debt limit constitutional amendment; preparing a model sanitary code; perfecting the general village law, and adopting a municipal legislative program.

"In addition, we have found it necessary or advisable to promote and create the New York State Aviation Conference; study the street railway paving problem; prepare a report on scientific assessment systems; compile a model village budget form; measure the effectiveness of fire departments; promote police training and make several special studies of state-wide municipal problems."

"Never-fail" Recipe for Crushed Strawberry Jam

Once you have tried the new short-boil method of making jams and jellies with Certo, you will discard the old, tedious, uncertain way as an out-of-date piece of kitchen drudgery.

Ten glasses of the most delicious Strawberry Jam can be made by the following recipe quickly, easily and with perfect results every time.

Crush about 2 quarts of berries one layer at a time so that each berry is actually crushed or broken up to a pulp. This allows fruit to quickly absorb the sugar during the short boil, and prevents fruit rising to the top or floating. Best results are obtained by running berries through a food chopper. Measure 4 level cups (2 lbs.) crushed berries into a large kettle, add 7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard from 1 to 2 minutes, remove from fire and stir in ½ cup Certo. Skim and stir constantly for just 5 minutes after taking from fire to cool slightly, which prevents fruit floating. Then pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot paraffin wax.

Certo is the natural jellying substance which has been extracted from fruit, refined and bottled so that perfect jams and jellies can be made without long boiling.

Recommended by a famous expert in cookery

Miss Alice Bradley, Principal, Miss Farmer's School of Cookery and Cooking Editor, Woman's Home Companion, says—

"I strongly advise all housewives to make all their jams and jellies with Certo because: It's easier—Takes only one minute's boiling. Tastes better—No flavor boiled away. Better color—Not darkened by long boiling. No worry—Never fails to set. It's economical—Fifty per cent more from given amount of fruit and no waste from failures."

Get Certo today from your grocer. With each bottle comes a complete book of recipes for making better looking, better flavored jams and jellies the quick, easy Certo way.

Among Wraps, Nothing Has More Assurance of Success Than the Cape-Coat, Incline Toward Flaring Lines in Acknowledgement of the Trend in Frocks.

New York capes are definitely identified with the summer mode. They are worn both long and short, as well as three-quarter length, and are in use on the beach and over the party gown, as well as for daily wear, and to a lesser degree for sports.

The ensemble with cape is among the approved versions of the ensemble, which term seems to be elastic to a degree. Some capes have fitted shoulders, and some are circular from the shoulder, the line being dropped or at the usual level.

The summer evening wrap must conform to the newer and fuller silhouette and is therefore inclined to assume the ample lines of the cape, a wide variety of materials being approved. Among these are the light-weight velvets so much under discussion, and the smart, if less elegant, velveteen, which, specially in white, is said to have many sponsors.

The hem of the cape, like the hem of the dress, has a tendency to sag very decidedly at the back. The flaring line is exploited for coats also, although there are a number of straight-line models being worn. Sleeves hint at greater fulness, and neck-lines are varied, including the cushion collar, usually of fur.

Broadcloth, cashmere, and rep, with velveteen, satin, moire and ottoman, are important, although many authorities agree that silk is less important for coats than it was. Tweed leads for utility, and short-haired furs are given more prominence by those who have carefully studied the trend.

Mother's Cook Book

It's not doing the thing we like to do; but liking the things we have to do, that makes life blessed.

Duty is soon tired. Love goes all the way.

UNCOMMON DISHES

WE ALL like variety in our food and enjoy a change in the preparation of the ordinary foods. The following will be found to be rather uncommon:

Burgundian Pate.

To the breasts of two cooked chickens, pounded to a paste, add one cupful of fresh bread crumbs and one half cupful of melted butter, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a dash of cayenne and five beaten egg yolks. Cook six chicken livers and six gizzards one hour in good chicken stock. Add a cupful of chopped ham, cooked, the same amount of fresh mushrooms chopped and cooked in butter for five minutes. Cook all together for a few minutes and cool. Line a pate mold with puff paste, fill with the mixture, cover with a crust of the paste and bake slowly in a moderate oven. Cover with a paper if the crust browns too quickly and add stock through the opening left for a vent in the top. Delicious, served hot or cold.

Sweetbread Soup.

Reheat one quart of veal stock and add two cupfuls of cream which has been beaten with two egg yolks. Take from the heat, season to taste, then add one cupful of parboiled sweetbreads cut into bits. Garnish with a cupful of whipped cream and a bit of minced parsley.

Amber Marmalade.

Take one orange, one grapefruit and one lemon; wash and wipe dry. Cut into thin slices, discarding the seeds. Add twelve cupfuls of water and let stand overnight. The next day cook in the same amount of water, set away again overnight; do not drain but add ten cupfuls of sugar and boil until thick. Put in glasses and seal with paraffin. As all citrus fruits are more plentiful at this season, it is a good time to make marmalade.

Benares Salad.

Chop fine one-half of a small Southern onion, add finely diced apple, celery, a bit of chopped green or red pepper and one-half cupful of cocoanut. Serve with a French dressing or with any good mayonnaise, or boiled dressing. Heap on lettuce and serve well chilled.

Oyster Stew.

Clean one quart of oysters by placing in a colander and pour over a cupful of water. Carefully pick over to remove shells; reserve the liquor. Heat the liquor to the boiling point, add the oysters and cook until the oysters are plump and the edges curl. Remove the oysters to a tureen, add one-fourth of a cupful of butter and salt and pepper to taste. Scald one quart of milk and pour over the oysters and liquor and serve at once.

Time Thief Get Time

It was a police court case involving the ownership of an eight-day clock. After hearing both sides, the judge turned to the plaintiff. "You get the clock," he said gravely, "And what do I get?" asked the accused. "You get the eight days," said the judge.—Capper's Weekly.

WOODSTOCK PASTOR AND WIFE GIVEN RECEPTION

The Rev. and Mrs. Harvey I. Todd of Woodstock were given a reception party in the basement rooms of the Woodstock Reformed Church on Monday night, June 4th, by the members of the Woodstock and West Hurley Reformed Church congregations.

Entertainment was furnished by Mrs. Olga Lynch, Mrs. Alma Simpkins and Mrs. Merrill Reynolds. Mrs. Lynch sang two soprano solos, Mrs. Simpkins two contralto solos; a beautiful duet was rendered by the two singers with Mrs. Reynolds at the piano. The ladies were asked to give encores and were roundly applauded for their generous and pleasing numbers.

G. C. Schrader presented Mr. and Mrs. Todd with a purse from the parishioners of the Woodstock Church and Walter France of Zena with a similar gift from the Zena church members. The Rev. Mr. Todd, in well chosen words, thanked the audience for their token of friendship and affection. Mrs. Todd was presented with a basket of flowers by Miss Janet Longyear. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the church to the guests at the party, which was a decided social success.

The Rev. and Mrs. H. I. Todd have just returned to Woodstock after a honeymoon trip spent in northern New York; they were married May 22 in New York city.

2 Kotex Improvements

with a million new women users

Regular price was 65c, NOW 45c—at all stores

WHEN the Improved Kotex was perfected it was sold without announcement of the fact that any changes had been made.

The improvements in Kotex are exclusive.

The first is an improved shape—one that means no awkward bulkiness to mar smooth, fashionable lines. The other, a fleecy softness never known before. The two mean almost unbelievable comfort—a total peace-of-mind found with no other pad.

But the women of America were quick to find out the improvements. And within a few months, a million new women had adopted the Improved Kotex. Kotex has always been the largest selling sanitary pad in the world.

This doubled volume brought such efficiencies in manufacture that we found the regular price could be greatly reduced at the same time that we announced the Improved Kotex.

Now get Improved Kotex at new low prices

Today obtain the Improved Kotex. You can buy it anywhere. All drug, department and dry goods stores have it now—at the new low prices.

LIVER EATING NOT 'JUST A FAD'

Thousands Now Taking

HEMO-LIVER

Millions of people are eating liver daily and there is a good reason for it. It is not because they enjoy eating liver. They know, as everybody ought to know, that liver contains the vital elements that create rich red blood that every man and woman must have in order to be strong and robust.

The vitalizing elements of liver will be used for years to come because of the marvelous benefits given to thin-blooded, weak, run-down men and women.

But who wants to eat liver as a continuous diet? Thanks to Science, the health-restoring elements in liver are now extracted and put up in a pleasant-to-take elixir called HEMO-LIVER.

A big 12-ounce bottle will last 8 days and a tablespoonful is a dose. One would have to eat liver a great many times to get as much benefit as Hemo-Liver will give you.

So gratifying have been the results of thousands to run-down, anemic, thin-blooded men and women that any progressive druggist will now sell you a bottle of Hemo-Liver with the distinct understanding that if your health is not greatly improved your money will be refunded.

As a Spring tonic it is a generation ahead of old-time remedies.

You can get Hemo-Liver at McBride's (3) Drug Stores.

Many Questions For Dairy League

National Questions to Come Before League's Annual Meet — 3,000 Farmers to Hear Missouri Farm Leader in Rochester, June 21—Women Have Part in Affair.

New York, June 5.—More than 3,000 milk producers of the New York Milk Shed will attend the annual meeting of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., in Rochester, N. Y., Thursday, June 21.

Promise that this will be not only the largest, but also the most important gathering of farmers in the east in a decade, is contained in recent economic and other developments affecting the dairy industry, which will receive the consideration of these organized farmers.

Nearly 1,000 of those attending will be accredited delegates of local units of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association scattered throughout the rural territory furnishing the milk supplies of New York, Buffalo, Rochester and numerous other centers. These delegates will represent the 40,000 organized dairymen of New York state and parts of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

Presentation of the resolution committee's report will be a feature of the morning session, which will be devoted to routine business. Resolutions to be submitted to the meeting promise to be of widespread importance. To a large extent these resolutions will voice the attitude of eastern dairymen on matters of national scope, and some will deal with subjects of imposing importance to the whole industry.

G. W. Slocum of Milton, Pa., president of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., will present his report of the year's business of the association. This will reveal an extraordinary growth in membership. It will treat also of the pioneering work done during the past year for the preservation and perpetuation of eastern dairying when it was threatened with extermination.

Prime feature of the day will be an address by William Hirth of Columbia, Missouri, publisher of The Missouri Farmer, official organ of the Missouri Farmers' Association, the most powerful farmers' organization in the Corn Belt. Mr. Hirth is chairman of the Corn Belt committee, which for four years has been representing eleven of the western states in their struggle for farm relief at Washington. In his address Mr. Hirth will bring to eastern agriculture the views of western farmers.

Women Have Meeting, Too

The official meeting of the League will be preceded on Wednesday, June 20, by a training school for women of the Dairymen's League. Several hundred farm women from all parts of the territory are expected to attend this meeting, which will be presided over by Miss Vera McCrea, director of the organization's Home Department, and one of the foremost women leaders in eastern agriculture.

Mrs. Hope Brown Minor, also of the Home Department, will speak on The Educational Program, telling the rural women how they can aid the cooperative movement, improve their home communities and broaden their own lives through organized effort. Feeds and Funds, an address of material benefit to the farm wife, will be delivered by Miss Martha A. Cekada, nutrition specialist of the association.

Mrs. Ruby Green Smith of the State College of Agriculture at Ithaca will speak on Pathfinders, Pictures That Tell the Story is the subject of a lecture by Mrs. Julia Burden of Cazenovia. Following this program the country women will be the guests of the Rochester Home Bureau at tea.

An entertainment program will be presented that evening under the auspices of the association's Home Department. Music will be provided by the Eastman School of Music orchestra, and a sketch arranged and directed by Miss Lottie Edwards, dramatic director of the League will be given. The Albion Boys' Band, composed of 40 youthful musicians sponsored by the Albion Rotary Club and including many farm boys, will also appear. A three act play written by Hal Eppes, widely known as Healthy the Milk Clown, will be presented by a local cast.

The Sunday evening services at the Rondout Presbyterian Church have been discontinued for the summer months.

The sacrament of Our Lord's Supper will be administered next Sunday morning. The preparatory services will be held Thursday evening.

The annual Children's Day services of the Sunday school will be held Sunday morning, June 17, and a fine program is being arranged by the school.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press)

The New York Giants owe a vote of thanks to their former teammate, Rogers Hornsby, who is hitting the ball at a .418 clip for the Boston Braves.

The "Rajah" let go by the Giants "for the good" of the club, personally accounted for the runs that pulled the Braves to a 5 to 3 verdict over the Cincinnati Reds at the Hub yesterday in one of the two major league games that rain did not prevent. The Reds' defeat allowed the Ole Giants to creep a bit closer to the front in the National League standings.

With the score tied and George Sisler on base in the ninth, Hornsby drove the ball into the center field bleachers—a terrific drive that decided the issue then and there. A few minutes before, Dressen's homer had tied the score. Eppa Rixey, elongated Cincinnati hurler, did his best to keep his team in the running with the first four-base blow of the game in the seventh. Horace Ford grabbed two assists at Shortstop for the Reds, running his consecutive chances accepted without an error to 101.

Six runs in the first three innings were enough to carry the Philadelphia Athletics to victory over the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 3, at Chicago. Ty Cobb came out of a bad batting slump and drove in three runs with a single and a triple in the first and second innings. Rube Walberg pitched effectively for the Mackmen until the ninth when he walked two men and then allowed three hits that were good for two runs. Kamm's home run in the second accounted for the third Sox tally.

All the other big time teams had an off day because of rain.

Tiger a Better Housemate

Keep a tiger in the house and you may succeed in living with it, but try keeping hatred in the heart and no power on earth can prevent catastrophe.—American Magazine.

Player of Bull Terrier Type

LITTLE has been said of Charlie Dressen but nevertheless this little man starred at third base for the Reds last season. Cute, the sensation of 1926, was not up to the hitting play of the obscure Dressen in 1927. The midget not quite some person. He played in 141 games and batted .292, right on the rim of the coveted .300 circle. He made 36 two-baggers and 10 triples and batted in 72 runs and scored 79 himself. Not bad for a third baseman who batted at the top of the lineup and who led his league in fielding with .957 and who had 40 more assists than the great Pie Traynor.

Yes, Dressen developed into considerable of a player last year, even if they did not print a lot about him in the papers. Great third basemen are nearly always as scarce in the majors as hens' teeth. Last year Traynor, Lindstrom and Dressen alone stood out in the National league and neither Traynor nor Lindstrom were up to their 1927 play. Dugan used to star in the American but his bad knee handicaps him now. They have no other outstanding third sacker in the younger circuit. At least ten of the major clubs would welcome a third baseman who could field smartly and hit .300 or better. So it can be seen that good hot corner men, when they do come through, are worth their weight in gold.

Dressen came to the Reds in the spring of 1925 from St. Paul with a sensational minor league record behind him. They looked to him to star that year in Redland. But a sore arm made him practically useless to Hendricks' team during that season.

Charlie Dressen.

Last year Dressen's fielding ranged from steady to brilliant, and with his bat he knocked on the door of the .300 mark that houses only the elect among the men of the majors.

But after all, the best thing about Dressen is his spirit. He is the bull terrier type, and that is the pennant type of player when all is said and done. Five out of every seven minor leaguers who fail to make the major grade lack only this game and battlesome spirit in their struggle for stardom. Dressen has it, and if that arm does not fail him he may well give the one and only Pie Traynor a battle for his third base kingship in the big leagues this coming season.

Greatest Natural Lover of Children in Sports

Rud Reanie, a New York baseball writer, describes Babe Ruth as the "greatest natural lover of children in sportdom."

An instance of how Ruth's sympathies were aroused by children who through illness were never able to get to a ball game, was a visit the Babe paid to a bed-ridden boy in Birmingham this spring. The father of the boy, shabbily dressed, accosted Ruth near the local park and told him how much his son admired the Babe. After the game, Ruth went out to see the boy, autographed baseballs for him and cheered him up with a lengthy stay.

Unique and Spectacular Career of Florida Boy

The early athletic career of Georgia Perrine, a Miami boy, at the University of Florida, has been both unique and spectacular. Entering school the middle of last year, Perrine promptly joined the frosh basket ball squad and won his numerals. Last fall George distinguished himself with the "Baby Gators" in football and won his first year numerals in that sport. Becoming a full-fledged sophomore in February of this year, George donned varsity basket ball togs, became regular center on the team, and was awarded his "F" at the close of the season.

Attaining a numeral and a varsity letter, in the same year is an unprecedented achievement for an athlete at Florida, and then to top off his brilliant record, George was recently elected to captain the 1929 varsity basket ball team. Sophomores are, as a rule, seldom honored with a captaincy, and for Perrine, just a mid-sophomore to receive the election, is a distinct tribute to the ability and determination of the curly-locked Miamian.

Fixing Ransom Figure

During the leisurely progress of one of the recent wars in China one side had a general captured.

The army which had lost the general volunteered to exchange four majors for him.

The suggestion was declined.

"Well," offered the negotiating officer, "we'll exchange four majors and four captains for him."

"No," replied the representative of the other side; "my instructions are that we cannot return your general for anything less than a dozen of condensed milk."

Plenty of Time

Doctor Lathrop, well-known missionary, once remarked: "The Chinese take to our language with avidity but the outcome of their fragmentary knowledge is sometimes very laughable.

"One day two Chinese students met on the street, and one said to the other: 'I pray thee, hast thou a moment to spare?'

"'Of a verity, I have but one brief moment,' was the reply.

"'Then I pray thee, tell me all that thou knowest,' was the well-meant request."

Joe Myers Set to Beat Rosenberg

Four-Round Tilt at Armory Show Promises to be a Hectic Battle—Promoters Say Main Fracas Will Be Best Put on at the Armory This Season.

JOE MYERS.

Joe Myers, popular Kingston boxer, who will battle Willie Rosenberg of Fort Dupont at the armory Friday night, May 8, has been socking the sand bag every day to get his punch dealers into proper shape for a kayo. Myers, who broke even so far this season on his wins and losses, plans on making one of the strongest efforts for supremacy ever staged by any scrapper against an opponent in the local drill shed.

Myers is scheduled for a four rounder. The Kingston battler is making ready to end the fight in its earliest stage and promises his followers that he will put forth his best to make the show a most interesting one.

During a lay-off Myers has been studying the finer points of the fistic game. He has received a great deal of information from "Doc" Studer, which is expected to help him greatly in his fracas with Rosenberg. Joe will have to be in good hitting form and use no small amount of headwork to overcome his Fort Dupont opponent, for this scrapper has been showing up real well in workouts with tough customers of the army boxing circles.

When Matchmaker Jimmy Ambrose booked these two boys for the next armory card, he informed Myers's handlers that the Kingston man would have to do so clever battling to stay with his opponents. By the looks of the situation at present Rosenberg will have to be in the pink of fighting form to stay the quartet of rounds with Myers.

The main bout of eight rounds promises to be a thriller. The opponents will be Georgie Mesina, of the 212th Anti-Aircraft, former lightweight champion of the Philippine Islands, and Alex Tovereski, a hard hitting Pole, from the 102d Medical Regiment. The promoters say the bout will be the best staged at the armory this season. The semi-final of six stanzas will be a fistic duel between Joe Vosdick of Saugerties and Frankie Ponzo, of the 369th Regiment. Frenchy Dueig and Stanley Miller, of the Naval Militia, will do a quartet of rounds and Roy Van Buren of this city will have for an opponent Soldier Hillis, of the 22d Engineers in a four rounder.

KINGSTON HIGH SCHOOL HAS EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

For several years past what might be called a high school employment bureau has been maintained at the Kingston High School, although that fact is not generally known.

Students of the high school who desire employment for the summer months only, or permanently after graduation, are registered. Many business men are asking the principal to recommend students for various kinds of positions. The graduates of the commercial department have pursued four years of English, two of history, one of science, one of algebra, one of commercial arithmetic and commercial law, typewritting and either bookkeeping or shorthand for two years.

All of these are what are called required subjects. In addition the course calls for five other subjects such as elements of business, economic geography, etc. The graduates of this course should be well prepared to take positions in the business of the city.

NEW BUILDING BEING ERECTED AT WOODSTOCK

Work is being rushed on the erection of a three-story building at Woodstock for Mr. Newgold who will open in July a tea room and gift shop on the premises. The building is being erected on the Rock City road near the center of the village and will contain twenty-five rooms on the second and third floors. Plans for the building were prepared by Architect Gerard W. Betz and call for a gift shop in the basement of the building. The first floor will be used as a tea room with a balcony around the mezzanine floor for refreshment tables. On the main floor will be space available for dancing.

The roof has been placed on the structure and estimates for heating and plumbing are now being solicited.

K. of C. Meeting Tonight.

Home tonight at 8 o'clock. The first and second degrees will be conferred on a class of candidates. It is requested that there be a large attendance of members. The third degree will be conferred at the building on Sunday.

BUCKETSHOP SWINDLERS PAROLED FROM SING SING.

Ossining, N. Y., June 5 (AP).—Edward M. Fuller and William McGee, former partners in the defunct New York brokerage firm of E. M. Fuller and Company, were released from Sing Sing today under parole to the Christian Science parole board after serving one year.

E. M. Fuller and Co., failed in June, 1922, with debts exceeding $4,000,000 shared by more than 20,000 creditors. After a series of trials, indictments on a variety of charges and other legal complications, Fuller and McGee pleaded guilty to bucketing stock orders and were sentenced on June 13, 1923. Four years more elapsed before they were finally entered in Sing Sing.

Chicago Grain Market.

Chicago, June 5 (AP).—Closing prices:

Wheat—July, $1.43¾; September, $1.45⅛.

Corn—July, $1.04⅜; September, $1.03⅝.

Oats—July, 56⅛c; September, 46c.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 5 (AP).—Speculators for the advance regained control of the price movement in today's stock market. The "money scare" late yesterday brought fresh liquidation into the market at the opening which carried many issues down 1 to 7 points, but a brisk rally set in before mid-day which wiped out many of the early losses and sent a number of issues 1 to 6 points above yesterday's final quotations.

Call money opened at 6½ per cent, the highest renewal rate since June, 1921, with a plentiful supply available. Reports that a large volume of funds was being sent here from abroad for temporary investment, which seemed to be borne out by the lower foreign exchange rates, helped to revive bullish confidence. Time money, however, was slightly firmer.

There was little in the day's business news to influence the price movement. Sale of pig iron at the lowest price since 1915 tended to dampen speculative enthusiasm for the steel shares. Merger rumors provided the background for the advance in a number of specialties, particularly in the farm implement, food, fertilizer and public utility divisions.

Persistent efforts of the Federal Reserve authorities to force a reduction in broker's loans inspired caution in conservative brokerage circles. In speculative quarters, however, there appeared to be a rather general belief that the stiff money rates were only temporary and that lower rates undoubtedly would precede the announcement of the new treasury financing.

Highly erratic fluctuations took place in some of the high priced specialties. Radio, for instance, opened unchanged at 197, advanced to 198¾, broke to 192, rallied to 204, dipped to 196¼ and then shot up around 205. Case Threshing rallied from a low of 313 to 324, Curtiss Aeroplane from 120¼ to 127¾. General Motors from 188½ to 194¾. American International from 109 to 114; International Harvester from 275 to 284 and International Combustion from 62½ to 67½. Western Union dipped to 144¼, the lowest price since 1926, and then rallied to 150.

Meanwhile bullish operations were conducted with considerable violence in Advance Rumely Common, Allied Chemical and McCrory Stores B, all of which sold 5 to 6 points above yesterday's final quotations. Packard, Hudson, Kennecott, Montgomery-Ward and Kroger Stores, which were heavy at the start, rallied a point or more above last night's final quotations.

DEAR MOTHER NATURE

"YOU are very clever," said the fern to the cactus plant in the greenhouse.

The cactus had been telling the fern that the reason for all the prickles which it had on its leaves was to save the juicy stems from being eaten and destroyed by animals in the desert lands from which it and many of its family came.

"Oh, yes, we must have a protection if we're to grow, and in this way we're quite safe. No one wants cactus burrs!"

"Of course I don't have the trouble that you do, for no one wants to eat me. So I do not need to be protected as you do."

"Well," said the cactus plant, "it is useful. I believe there are other creatures who do the same kind of thing as we plants—have some means of protection.

"The Poisonous Snakes Have Their Poison Right With Them."

"There is the hedgehog, who can roll himself up into a prickly ball when he is frightened. That is his protection.

"Yes, there are many, many creatures who 'wear' their protection.

"The poisonous snakes have their poison right with them.

"Many little birds look like the woods in color so that they cannot be seen and some of the toads and frogs do, too."

"Ah, yes," said the fern; "all that you say is very true. But animals are different from plants.

"I think it is so particularly clever of you to be able to have protection such as you have and such very good protection when you're only a plant."

"Ah, fern," said the cactus plant, "you give me credit for more brains and sense than I have.

"All of this is owing to dear Mother Nature. She is the one who looks out for her children.

"She it is who saw that the cactus plants, or the Cacti as you speak of many of us, had prickles to save them from being destroyed.

"Yes, Mother Nature is the one who looks after us. She is not so busy that she hasn't time to remember all her children, every one."

Then a voice spoke.

"I didn't think I would hear anyone now," said the fern, "for our keeper has left for the day and the greenhouse is closed to people after the late afternoon has passed."

"I heard a voice; I most certainly heard a voice," said the cactus.

And again they heard the voice more clearly.

In another moment they saw the loveliest of lovely creatures.

"Oh, Mother Nature!" they all shouted. "Darling Mother Nature."

"There, there," said Mother Nature, "if you make such a fuss over me I will cry with joy. I'm glad little Violet made me a yellow and a purple and a blue handkerchief. For even though I have three handkerchiefs I may have to use them all."

Mother Nature wore a beautiful cape made of leaves, which was trimmed with a collar of summer flowers.

Her hat was of garden flowers and edged with a tiny border of little woodland wild flowers.

Her shoes were of moss and her dress was of soft, long green grasses and wheat and rye and barley intermixed.

"I wore my summer frock today of course," she said, as her greenhouse children admired her.

"I'm glad you like it. But, children, you were praising me for watching over you.

"I do not deserve any praise for that. I cannot help but watch over you. I love you—a mother who doesn't love her children is a very, very strange creature!

"Mother Nature isn't strange like that. She loves all her dear ones and she does what she can for them. It is only natural, only natural!"

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"IT'S A CINCH"

TWO popular members of our slang lexicons are "cinch" and "soft snap." The latter is an obvious metaphor referring to the ease of snapping softly, as a snap of the fingers, which, except for the click, requires no effort.

But "cinch" is not synonymous with "soft snap." Upon investigation of its origin it develops a different shade of meaning.

Before railroads had penetrated our great Southwest, or even the old stage made its bow, pack mules carried into regions unsurveyed the household goods of the traveling homesteader or pioneer, as well as the family itself, or the goods and person of the itinerant merchant.

Along the untrodden trails, which it was often necessary to traverse, traveling was not always smooth and steady. Mules were prone to leave their burdens by the wayside, and to insure that all one's belongings come in at the finish it was necessary in loading the mule, carefully, to tighten the girth to get a good cinch, which gave a sure, safe hold. From this we have "cinch" as a certainty, a sure thing.

For Meditation

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

"KNOW THYSELF"

"KNOW thyself" is an ancient Greek motto. No matter how much knowledge one may possess if it does not help one to become better acquainted with one's self, it is of little avail. A person's worst enemy is too much self-confidence. This self-confidence is akin to conceit which has blocked the path to progress in many a career. Self-confidence born of perseverance, tenacity and sheer pluck is one thing, self-conceit is quite another thing. The sooner we become acquainted with our own shortcomings the better. A secret fault of which we may be unconscious settles in the mind of the man higher up what our fitness may be for advancement. To spend a brief time each day looking into the mirror of our own selves is a profitable experience.

A person must know his fault if he would correct it. Efficiency is not only achieved by a willingness to work but by ability plus personality which ever strives to attain.

At the age of forty-five one should be well on the way to success in a definite life's work. One of the tragedies in life is to discover that instead of success, failure seems to be the inevitable result of our efforts. This failure may be attributable to the lack of perseverance or courage, but it also may be the result of having made a wrong choice of a life's vocation.

To prevent such a condition arising, a careful inventory of our capacity should be made either by ourselves or by an expert in the field of vocational training. "Know thyself." Not mere chance but reason should be our guide in so important a matter. He is a wise man who has permitted wisdom and judgment to lead him in finding his proper niche.

Radio Used by Surveyors

The radio has been used recently in various surveying work, notably in Alaska. In order to determine the longitude of a place it was formerly necessary for a surveyor to have an accurate chronometer, from which he knew the standard time. Now if he has a radio set he can pick up the time signals from the larger radio stations, especially the Arlington signals.

5 Incorporations In Ulster County

Albany, June 5.—In Ulster county five companies incorporated last month, with a total capitalization of $145,000.

Some idea of the enormous volume of business passing through the state's corporation bureau these days can be gained in the fact that for the first five months this year a total of 12,331 stock companies have received charters from Robert Moses, secretary of state. These figures represent the largest total for a five month period in the history of the bureau and exceed those of last year by 646. Only a few years ago the total for the month would generally run around a thousand companies.

The majority of companies incorporating these days appear to be well financed, with a noticeable lack of the fly by night variety that have been common in the past. There does appear to be a falling off, however, in the real estate boom that prevailed in and around New York city a few months ago, if one is to judge from the number of companies that are incorporating these days.

The principal feature in connection with last months' business handled by the state corporation bureau lies in the fact that more companies connected with aviation incorporated and received their charters than during any month in the state's history. There were more than a dozen of these companies and each gave evidence of most substantial backing.

ST. PETER'S CHILDREN OF MARY SODALITY.

Monday evening at the regular monthly meeting of the St. Peter's Children of Mary Sodality there was a very good attendance considering the inclement weather. This was the last meeting until after the summer. The members were highly commended for their appearance in great numbers for the monthly Holy Communion on Sunday. All were urged to observe well the month of June, devoted to the Sacred Heart. Among other business transacted the members heartily endorsed the pledge made toward the Benedictine drive by its officers, which will be paid in four or five installments during the fifteen months allotted, according as the sodality treasury is reimbursed.

Of special note was the neat miniature minstrel staged by some of the young ladies during the social hour after the meeting. This was under the direction of Agnes Bruck, chairlady of the entertainment committee. The excellent manner in which the girls acted afforded much pleasure for the other members present and drew forth many rousing cheers. The players included Helen and Katheryn Delamater, Philomena Gehringer, Marie and Rita Ketterer, Gertrude Kraus, Louise Mellert, Betty and Marie Reis, Tillie Saas and Anna Spader. After refreshments all went home happy.

No Need to Suffer Another Day

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflammation of swollen joints and help get them down to normal and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning.

Ask William Dederick or any first-class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and furthermore if one bottle of Emerald Oil does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Fast Craft Used by New Guinea Natives

Craft similar to our modern speed boats have been in use in the waters around New Guinea for centuries. Native principles of design and a very little wood enable the boats to skim along the surface of the waves, and despite their lightness they are quite seaworthy. The New Guinea canoe builders hold their jobs by hereditary right and work with a royal pride. The trees they use are the greenheart bak, the mallaccca and the mahoe bak, which, despite their names, are very fine and when chipped out and seasoned produce a shell that will withstand the tropic sun without splitting. There is a "torpedo" craft that is the larger sizes is fitted with a mast and ropes of twisted cocoa husk or vines and sails of cocoa matting closely plaited. The canoes are built for trade with the Torres Islanders, with whom there was once an extensive trade. Formerly the price of a canoe was reckoned in human skulls, and this currency still is good in parts of New Guinea, but now the Torres Islanders use shell money, one of a rare variety being worth from $20 to $40 in United States money. One shell of this kind will buy a small canoe and three a large one.—Sydney Bulletin.

Good Handwriting No Longer Social Asset

The reason why good handwriting has become a "lost art" is attributed to the fact that a letter written by hand no longer receives immediate attention in business, points out Hugh Fullerton in an article in Liberty Magazine.

"Typewriting is more easily and rapidly read and carries the idea more clearly to the brain of the reader," explains the writer. "Psychologically, a proposition submitted in typewritten form has the advantage because it makes a good first impression. Watch any good business man opening his mail. The telegrams are always placed on the top of the morning mail and are read first; the typewritten letters come next; and those in longhand last.

"There was a time," continues Fullerton, "when it was considered discourteous to write a social letter on the typewriter. Today certain classes of friendly correspondence may be written by machine and even invitations to large gatherings may be printed or written on machines."

Snails Long Human Food

That prehistoric man in north Africa depended chiefly on snails for food is proved by huge mounds of snail shells excavated by members of a recent expedition. One shell mound was 300 feet long and 8 feet high.

Occasionally bones of animals and human skeletons were found among the snail shells and kitchen ashes of the dump-piles. The excavators also unearthed flint arrow points and scrapers and hammer stones thrown away by Stone age men thousands of years ago.

The most common of the bone implements found in shell mounds were small bone tools with fine delicate points, believed to have been used as picks and forks to remove snails from their shells.

His Simple Query

A certain gentleman who bought a house as close to the railroad station as he could possibly get it soon repented of his choice.

The following is a letter he wrote to the railway company complaining about the noise made by shunting operations throughout the night:

"Gentlemen, why must your engines ding and dong and fizz and spit and pant and grate and grind and puff and bump and chug and hoot and toot and whistle and wheeze and jar and jerk and snarl and slam and throb and roar and rattle and yell and smoke and smell and shriek all the night long?"

A Wise Mother

Whooping cough was prevalent in town and Edward's mother was diligently trying to prevent his getting it. A friend asked the little boy, "Why haven't you got the whooping cough, Edward?" "Mother won't let me," was the reply.—Children, The Magazine for Parents.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, June 5.—Russell R. Freer has bought the Poughkeepsie stage route formerly run by Louis H. DuBois. For the present orders may be left with Mrs. Louis H. DuBois. Mr. Freer started running on Monday, June 4, and will run Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, leaving New Paltz about eight in the morning.

Mrs. Jacob Deyo was hostess to the N. S. V. Club on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Bowman LeFevre and Miss Sara Deyo entertained at cards last week.

Mrs. Louis LeFevre gave a luncheon on Thursday. Bridge was enjoyed later in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Sears and Dr. and Mrs. Charles Francis of New York city motored to town on Sunday.

Z. F. DuBois of Verona, N. J., formerly of New Paltz, visited this village on Thursday. Mr. DuBois is with the Public Service Railway Company of New Jersey.

Mrs. C. C. Schepmoes of Kingston, formerly of New Paltz, was in this village on Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Schepmoes have lately returned from California where they go every winter.

The first serious tryout of enforcing the stop and start signals in this village occured on Decoration Day. Officer Decker was stationed at the junction of Main street and Plattekill avenue, Officer Newkirk at the crossing of Main and Chestnut and Officer Ose at the intersection of Chestnut and North Front streets. Judge Brown held police court in the trustees' room. The three officers were alert and very much on their jobs. Judge Brown justly received much favorable comment on his ruling. There were seventeen arrests for light violations.

Easton Van Wagenen, cashier of the Huguenot Bank, who died at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, Thursday, May 24, had been ill since March. He was the son of Easton Van Wagenen and Cornelia Harp Van Wagenen. Easton Van Wagenen, Sr., in his day was perhaps the most prominent man in New Paltz. He had a large drug store, was postmaster, did all the insurance business in the town, had a brickyard, took a keen interest in politics and was very public spirited. It was he who started the Independent paper in 1868. His early death was a great loss to the town. Easton Van Wagenen, the younger, after his graduation from the New Paltz school in 1888, was assistant postmaster at New Paltz for four years and then began his duties at the Huguenot Bank, gradually rising from the position of bookkeper to that of cashier, which office he has filled faithfully and well for twenty-four years. During this time, with the exception of brief vacations, he has never been absent from his post and his fidelity, trustworthiness and ability played prominently in maintaining the high standing which the New Paltz Huguenot Bank has held for many years. He had been a director of the bank since 1905. Modest and retiring, Mr. Van Wagenen was a Christian gentleman, the scul of honor and of courtesy. He was a member of the Reformed Church, the board of academy trustees, the New Paltz fire department and the Knights of Pythias. His funeral was held from his late home on South Chestnut street, Sunday, May 27. The Rev. Edwin D. Miner, assisted by the Rev. J. Robert Haimshaw, officiated. A part of the service was conducted by the Knights of Pythias. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. George Millham, of New Paltz.

After an illness of pneumonia of only a week, Louis H. DuBois, another prominent citizen of New Paltz, died at his home on upper Main street on Thursday, May 24. The consultations of doctors and three nurses were powerless to stay the course of the disease. Mr. DuBois was born in New Paltz, the son of Supervisor George DuBois and Mrs. DuBois, who before her marriage was Miss Stillwell. The 17th of last April was the thirty-fourth anniversary of his wedding to Sadie E. Pine, also of New Paltz. He was a descendant of Louis DuBois the Patentee. For many years Mr. DuBois ran a delivery stage between New Paltz and Poughkeepsie. He was one of the best and most favorably known citizens of New Paltz and of such a friendly and jovial disposition that he was known to his friends as "Laughing Lou". He was a member of the Odd Fellows and an honorary member of the fire department. He belonged to the Reformed Church of New Paltz. The Rev. Edwin D. Miner officiated at the funeral, which was held at the Reformed Church on Sunday afternoon, May 27. A part of the service was conducted by the Odd Fellows. Besides his wife he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Herman Glanz, and two brothers, G. Wurts and Bruyn, all of New Paltz.

On Wednesday evening there will be a farewell tea for Miss Merry's Bible school at the Reformed Church parsonage.

Another Harcourt book, "Bad Girl", has been banned in Boston. The book is another best seller.

Home Service Lesson Subject.

"Canning and Jelly Making" is the subject of the home service lesson to be demonstrated by Miss Elizabeth Plank of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation at the home service auditorium at 5 Field Court, this evening at 7:30 and Wednesday afternoon, June 6, at 2:30.

Legion Drum Corps Meeting.

The members of the American Legion drum corps will meet in the Memorial building on Wednesday evening, June 6, at seven o'clock for practice. All members are asked to be present at that time.

This picturesque village is slowly filling up with city guests who come each year to spend the summer months and enjoy the pure fresh air and country life. Already several houses have guests and soon every boarding house will be filled to capacity.

Ostrich Was "Off Side"

An amusing story comes from Montagu, South Africa, where, in a schoolboys' cricket match, the batsman hit the only ball possessed by the village cricket team among a few ostriches standing close to the field. One of the birds whipped up the ball, and swallowed it. The ostrich was caught, and by pummeling and massaging its neck for some time the ball was recovered.
